District Attorney Clark said, “I want to thank our partners from the Courts and Legal Aid, and Rev. Malobe Sampson, pastor of Thessalonía Worship Center, as well as the volunteers from my Office, for all their hard work to make this a success. I am happy to provide this service to members of the community, and to show them the direct impact of criminal justice reform on their lives.”

About 350 people attended the event; 57 of them cleared old summons warrants for low-level offenses, 105 came for information on how to seal old convictions and start the process, and everyone checked out the resource fair in the beautiful weather.

The Legal Aid Society provided help to people seeking to clear their records.
