BRONX DA DARCEL D. CLARK ANNOUNCES FINDINGS OF INVESTIGATION INTO FATAL SHOOTING OF KAWASKI TRAWICK BY POLICE
No Criminality in Tragic Death, But a Need to Review Training and Procedures; and Provide More Assistance to Those in Supportive Housing

Bronx District Attorney Darcel D. Clark today announced that a year-long investigation into the fatal shooting of Kawaski Trawick inside his non-profit housing apartment by a member of the New York City Police Department on April 14, 2019 has resulted in no criminal charges being brought.

District Attorney Clark said, “Although we do not find that the facts warrant a criminal prosecution, this event does demand a thoughtful review of police procedures and training techniques. Additionally, as a community, we must do a better job of providing appropriate support for the residents and staff of supportive housing services in the City.

“My office intends to release a comprehensive and transparent report that will detail the facts leading up to Mr. Trawick’s tragic death.”

The family of Mr. Trawick and their advocates met with the Public Integrity Bureau today and were informed of the findings.

The formal report detailing the investigation will be released to the public in the coming weeks. The report outlines the basis for the conclusion that criminal charges against the police officer involved in the shooting in Mr. Trawick’s apartment at 1616 Grand Avenue are not appropriate.
