FORMER BRONX DAYCARE WORKER SENTENCED TO 14 YEARS IN PRISON FOR SEXUALLY ABUSING TWO GIRLS
Defendant Convicted by Jury of Abusing Girls at His Family’s Facility

Bronx District Attorney Darcel D. Clark today announced that a former daycare worker has been sentenced to 14 years in prison and 25 years post-release supervision for sexually abusing two girls multiple times over a five year period at the Bronx facility where he worked.

District Attorney Clark said, “The defendant violated the trust of parents who put their daughters in the care of this facility. These little girls should have been safe but instead he subjected them to horrific abuse. Today’s sentence should provide a measure of closure for the young victims’ families and a first step in the healing process.”

District Attorney Clark said the defendant, Jaime Sanchez 33, was sentenced today by Bronx Supreme Court Justice Jeffrey Rosenbleuth to 10 years in prison and 15 years post-release supervision for first-degree Course of Sexual Conduct Against a Child and four years in prison and 10 years post-release supervision for second-degree Course of Sexual Conduct Against a Child, to run consecutively. He was sentenced to one year in jail on each of two counts of Endangering the Welfare of a Child, to run concurrently with the other sentences. He was found guilty of those charges by a jury on April 24, 2025.

According to the facts at trial, between 2015 and 2020, Jamie Sanchez worked at My Precious Little Angels Daycare at 1238 Reverend James A. Polite Avenue in the Bronx. Sanchez sexually abused two girls at the facility on multiple occasions at different locations inside the daycare, which was operated by the defendant’s family. One of the victims was between the ages of two to five years old when the abuse occurred. The other victim was between the ages of eight to 10 years old. Each girl’s parents reported the assaults to police separately in 2022. The defendant, who had moved to Florida in 2020, was extradited to New York on November 30, 2022.
