PENNSYLVANIA MAN INDICTED FOR SHOOTING GAS STATION WORKER
Defendant Shot Victim in Apparent Random Attack

Bronx District Attorney Darcel D. Clark today announced that a Pennsylvania man has been indicted on Attempted Murder in the second degree and related charges for shooting a man in the head while he was working at an Allerton gas station.

District Attorney Clark said, “The defendant allegedly opened the door of the victim’s office and shot him in the head. Although the victim miraculously survived the attack, he will face unimaginable challenges for the rest of his life.”

District Attorney Clark said the defendant, Termaine Saulsbury, 42, of Philadelphia, PA, was arraigned January 29, 2026, on Attempted Murder in the second degree, first-degree Assault, two counts of second-degree Criminal Possession of a Weapon, two counts of second-degree Assault, and Criminal Possession of a Firearm by Bronx Supreme Court Justice George Villegas. The defendant was remanded. He is due back in court on April 1, 2026.

According to the investigation, on November 22, 2022, at approximately 7:00 p.m., inside a gas station at 2290 Boston Road, the defendant went to the station’s office, opened the door, and immediately shot a 59-year-old man who was working there in the head one time, piercing his skull. The defendant fled. The victim underwent multiple surgeries and was put on ventilator and feeding tube for several months.

The defendant was discovered in Pennsylvania after he was arrested and later pleaded guilty to shooting a Philadelphia Parking Authority Officer. He was extradited to New York to face charges in the Bronx case.

The case is being prosecuted by Paul Irace, Senior Trial Assistant in Trial Bureau 60, under the supervision of Michael Schordine, Deputy Chief of Trial Bureau 60 and Susanna Imbo, Chief of Trial Bureau 60, and the overall supervision of James Brennan, Deputy Chief of Trial Division, and Theresa Gottlieb, Chief of the Trial Division.
