BRONX MAN INDICTED FOR ALLEGEDLY KILLING HIS MOTHER Victim Found in the Family Apartment Covered in Blood

Bronx District Attorney Darcel D. Clark today announced that a Bronx man has been indicted on Murder and other related charges for allegedly stabbing his mother to death inside the family's apartment.

District Attorney Clark said, "This defendant is accused of an unthinkable crime - killing his own mother in the home that they shared. This senseless act of violence has torn a family apart. This defendant will be held accountable for his actions."

District Attorney Clark said that defendant Bob Guzman, 33, of the Bronx, was arraigned on October 6, 2026 on second-degree Murder, and first-degree Manslaughter by Bronx Supreme Court Justice Pamela Goldsmith. Remand is continued. He is due back in court on December 3, 2026.

According to the investigation, on August 21, 2026, at approximately 3:38 p.m., inside an apartment at 1236 Grand Concourse, the defendant allegedly stabbed his mother, Josefa Soto Guzman, multiple times in the head and chest, causing her death. Five days later a member of the public spotted Guzman on the street, having seen his face on a wanted flyer. That citizen called police who arrived within minutes and placed the defendant under arrest.

The case is being prosecuted by Senior Homicide Counsel George Suminski under the supervision of Burim Namani, Deputy Chief of the Homicide Bureau, Christine Scaccia, Chief of the Homicide Bureau, and under the overall supervision of James Brennan, Deputy Chief of the Trial Division, and Theresa Gottlieb, Chief of the Trial Division.

District Attorney Clark thanked Trial Preparation Assistant Anwar Torres for his assistance with the case.
